THE MIDDLEBURY CAMPUS

VOL. XVI. MIDDLEBURY COLLEGE, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1919 No. 8

PRESIDENTS MEET HERE THIS WEEK

Conference of Executives Opens Friday

Fifteen Colleges Will Be Represented By Two Men Each

Thirty college officials, including thirteen college presidents and representing fifteen New England educational institutions, will meet at Middlebury Friday and Saturday of this week for discussion of current college prolems. The officials will meet informally and exchange ideas concerning the problems brought up, no action being taken and no report of the proceedings being published. The colleges represented belong to The Association of Colleges in New England and the meeting this week will be the sixty-first which the Association has held.

The names of the men who will attend were published in last week's issue of The Campus. Word has been received since then, however, that Dean Craven Laycock of Dartmouth College will attend in place of President E. M. Hopkins, while Harry Edwin Burton, Chairman of the Department of Latin, will be the other representative of that institution. The faculty representative from Amherst College will be George D. Olds, Dean of the College.

The topics which will be discussed at the meeting are:

"What action should be taken by the Colleges in view of the present popular prejudice against the study of German?"

"Agreement as to the pass mark at which the College Entrance Board examinations should be accepted."

"What effects of the war can be observed on the students' elections of courses this year? Do these changes, or any other reasons growing out of the war, suggest further modifications of college curriculum?"

"Should the work in physical education receive college credit and the work in this Department be placed, in every respect, on a parity with that of other Departments of instruction?"

"Shall the colleges accept for entrance a certain number of so-called 'free elective units'? Have any New England colleges taken steps in this direction?"

"Can any improvement be introduced in the system of special honors to encourage a larger number of students in extra-curriculum study?"

"How can college teaching, irrespective of subject, be made to yield the greatest cultural results?"

"The American Council of Education."

"The general examination and its relation to various methods of instruction."

"The requirement of foreign languages. Should it be an option among several languages or a definite prescription of certain languages, and should the requirement be stated in terms of courses or in terms of the proficiency to be attained?"

"Do we need a more definite standard of performance in judging matters of scholarship and discipline?"

"How to minimize discrepancies in grading."

"War problems, such as credit for work done while in the service."

"The accuracy of entrance examinations and school records as tests of capacity for college work."

"In the teaching of modern languages what work can be done corresponding

FAMOUS PUBLISHER SPEAKS TONIGHT

"All the Monthly Magazines" Subject of Lecture

Joseph C. Lincoln, Author, Comes to Midd Next Week

William Webster Ellsworth will deliver a lecture tonight in the Mead Chapel on the subject, "All the Monthly Magazines." Mr. Ellsworth was connected with The Century Company for thirty-seven years and is thus one of the leading authorities on magazine publishing in the country. The lecturer also enjoys the friendship of some of America's most famous writers and will no doubt give some intimate stories connected with the lives of these men.

The lecture next week is to be given by Jospeh C. Lincoln, author of "Cape Cod Ballads" and other famous books, who will read selections from certain of his works. Mr. Lincoln was born along Cape Cod among retired sea captains and fishermen and there he spent his boyhood days, so his knowledge of the Massachusetts fisher-folk is first hand. In appearance Mr. Lincoln, we are told, is the embodiment of good humor. Stout, rosy cheeked, comfortable to look upon, he seems fairly to exude fun. Coming here with a high reputation as a reader it is safe to say that Mr. Lincoln will present a program which it will not pay anyone to miss.

Charles N. Crewdson, Jr., of Chicago, Ill., has entered the freshman class as a transfer from Cornell. This brings the total enrollment of the men's college up to 200.

MIDDLEBURY LOSES TO WILLIAMS 19-0

Boynton, All-American Quarter, Stars in Purple Victory

Veteran Player Scores Two Out of Three Touchdowns and Kicks one Goal

"Benny" Boynton, all-American quarter-back, together with the ten other members of the Williams football outfit administered a 19-0 defeat to Middlebury last Saturday at Williamstown. Middlebury put up one of the gamest fights of the season and once in the first quarter Parker carried the ball over Williams' goal line only to have the score disqualified by Referee Peterson.

The Williams football machine was virtually a one-man team. With the speedy Boynton out of their opponent's line-up Middlebury would have had little difficulty in piling up a good round score. As it was her line broke through repeatedly and downed the Williams captain several yards back of the line of scrimmage. In this respect as well as in punting and passing, with some exceptions, Middlebury had the advantage. Williams gained repeatedly on an extended open formation which she used to execute forward passes and in punting. What her line lacked in defensive power near the middle of the field was more than made up when Middlebury came within striking distance of her goal posts. Captain Boynton's speed together with his all-around ability in handling the ball enabled him to tear off numerous runs around either end which accounted for the majority of Williams' ground gains.

Middlebury sprang the big surprise in

MIDDLEBURY MAY HAVE MIND TESTS

College will Adopt Them if Students Approve

Would be Similar to Those Used By Columbia

The administration of the college is considering the advisability of offering psychological tests along with mid-year and entrance exams for the freshman class. No definite action has yet been taken but if the sentiment of the students is found to be in favor of such exams as a check in connection with college work, in all probability Midd will follow in the footsteps of Columbia, which was the first of the larger institutions to recognize this method of determining the capability of her students.

The aim of these psychological tests is to measure in so far as is possible, the general intellectual powers of individuals apart from special training. They consist usually of a wide variety of questions on varying topics, so that any advantage that might be had from chance training or environment may be eliminated. The variety is sufficient to insure every candidate chance to show the quality of his general ability.

The tests are not new. Psychologists have been working along these lines for fifteen years, particularly on tests for children. They were quite widely used before the war in public schools and reformatory institutions, but the selective draft, of course, called for careful sifting of men on a very large scale. The War Department immediately turned to the psychologists for aid. The leading men of the science were secured for consultation, and a division of the Medical Department known as the Psychological Division was organized. Under the supervision of this department a series of mental tests was devised.

The use of tests on large scale, on thousands of cases, showed very close relationship between results of tests and the success and usefulness of men in the departments of service. They have been particularly valuable in detecting low grade men, unfit for overseas service, and high grade men, who made material for Officers Training Camps, and other departments of service where a high degree of ability is necessary.

Tests for college freshmen have been given in several institutions for a number of years, just by way of experimentation and results have been so convincing that psychological tests have now been given official status in several colleges, notably Columbia University. It has been found that the tests agree very closely with the success of students in college work. No college would accept results as sole tests of fitness but they are coming to regard them as giving very valuable supplemental data.

The most extensive series of tests is that used at Columbia by Dr. Thorndike. Under his direction the University provides a different series of tests for each year, based on the same general principles but so altered that coaching is not possible.

The advisability of instituting such tests at Middlebury might form a suitable topic for deliberation at a meeting of the Discussion Club. An expression of sentiment might perhaps be appreciated by the administration.

Why Not A Middlebury Hymn?

A few weeks ago when the subject of Midd songs was being agitated, this question came up in a discussion by a group of students—Why shouldn't there be a Middlebury College hymn, or better still, two of them, a morning and an evening hymn, with words and music all our own? The chapel service has come to be an accepted part of our college life, and perhaps, although we may not be fully conscious of it, unites us as a student body as no other agency does. Would not this feeling of oneness which is at the root of all college spirit be deepened and strengthened if we could occasionally sing together a Middlebury College hymn? Beautiful as are the hymns of our college hymnal, and they are far more beautiful than any of us could hope to write, yet they seem almost without exception to have been born out of the religious thought and aspiration of advanced years. A student or alumnus of Middlebury who could give sincere expression, however amateurish it might be, to the spirit and religion of youth, would by that act render a valuable and lasting service to the students of future years.

"College spirit is a bold and hardy determination to cultivate and discipline our powers, with the aid of all that men have learned before us; and then to pour the whole stream of our power into the noble tasks of our own time."

—Justice Wendell P. Stafford,
Supreme Court of District of Columbia

What Others Think

Open To All

Look In The Mirror!

Human nature being a somewhat universal characteristic, mayhap with a sense of modesty, we may safely assume that the world parts its hair, polishes its face, and regards itself in the mirror daily. And more often than not, turns away with that silent and cynical consciousness of the same old reflection, in the same old way. In other words, there is a general tendency to reflect today that which we reflected yesterday. Yes, the universal sameness is appalling. This refers to action as well as to countenance.

Look at the knights of old. Adventure, What-Ho, and Forsooth, fair maid! There was action, spirit and originality. One can hardly imagine Sir Launfal glooming up the campus on the way to yon beastly class, and with murmured utterances of "Faith, a dastardly piece of business", and a why-was-I-born-to-this attitude.

No, we can all be knights, and as knights, fare forth to conquer our dragons and free our fair ladies.

What has this to do with mirrors, reflections, and sameness? Just this;—forget that yesterday you went to a class, and the day before, you walked the campus. Yea, forget that the hills and sun were in order, if you will. Today is new, and as an advocate of the new and changing, gird yourself with a desire and an eagerness that reflects enthusiasm for this fair sphere in which you find yourself. Show yourself and your companions, that though life is the same old thing, it is not vain repetition. And though you may part your hair and shine your face—though the mirror may reflect a material sameness,—the campus mirror, which, by the way, is more truthful, withal more critical, will reflect that twinkle of eye, that humor of regard, and that optimistic enthusiasm for living, which, after all, are the only keynotes of success.

Let us realize that with each dawning day, the old order changeth, and that the new reflects a wondrous image.

Quixote—

An Echo

Dear Editor:

The sentiment expressed in the extract, which you published from the letter of a Boston alumnus last week, is most heartily echoed by Midd graduates. Too often the search for news of our Alma Mater in city newspapers is vain. Could not some arrangement be made, either through the medium of The Campus Board or by the co-operative work of the Women's College and the Undergradute Association, to insure the appearance of Middlebury items in the larger newspapers? I am sure that all Midd's friends, as well as her alumni, would not only give this more loyal support whenever possible, but would be most gratified to see the college take its place with sister institutions in the news columns.

Will U. Try.

From A Freshman

Dear Editor:

Yesterday the college "celebrated" the signing of the armistice by having no classes. Each one was left to spend the day as he chose. The day was very quiet and all roads seemed to lead from the campus, away to the individual interests of each student or to various groups.

On this important anniversary, which meant so much to the world at large, so much to our own country, so much to each one of us, was there not on this day something lacking? Was it not fitting that our hearts should go up in prayer and thanksgiving to the God who gave us peace? We have a chapel service every day—why not have a special service on this day?

Our service flag, of which Middlebury is justly proud, is a constant reminder of the service and sacrifice of our men in the great war. The signing of the armistice was what decided that no more of the blue stars of service should blaze into the golden stars of sacrifice. Those stars represent the men as students of our college, and it is our duty as Middlebury students to show them respect and gratitude.

Progress and religion go hand in hand. If we cannot connect our college life with higher things, we shall not progress far. On holidays such as Thanksgiving and Memorial Day we go about our selfish tasks or pleasures, while the chapel on the hill, symbolic of the spiritual interests of the college, stands empty, waiting until the day of celebration is over.

"College spirit" means more than scholarship, support of athletics, etc. It cannot be exactly defined, yet we feel a lack of it in its perfection here at Middlebury. In our observance of yesterday—or rather our lack of observance—can we not find a clue to this lack?

Wanted—A Waste-Basket!

Dear Editor:

Just by way of a mild hint we would like to offer the suggestion that a waste-basket or two would add immeasurably to the convenience of the reading room of Starr Library. To be sure waste-baskets are not especially ornamental articles of furniture, but their appearance would be hailed with genuine delight and gratitude by that band of the faithful who worship at Clio's shrine in the south-east corner of the reading room, and to the whole company of "library fiends" and thesis-writers who at present are obliged to make their note books serve as waste-paper receptacles, or else leave the suggestions of their labors on the library tables for the annoyance of others.

A. Hint.

As Others See Us

Dear Editor:

During a recent visit to the college I was impressed by the improvement in the spirit of the student body. It seems to me that the amount of "pep" has materially increased and that the plea for "the old Middlebury spirit" is in a fair way to be realized. Many of the alumni, who haye been back this year, share this view with me and it is certain that neither students nor faculty can feel greater satisfaction over this change than do the graduates. Keep up the good work!

Best wishes to the college and to The Campus Board.

I. C. Improvement.

KALEIDOSCOPE CUTS

Contributions of cuts or cartoons for the Kaleidoscope will be welcome at any time now. It has been decided to confine the dimensions to two different sizes. They will be as follows: Frontispiece, Athletics, Social Events, Fraternities, Junior Week, Commencement Week, and class cuts to be 5 1-2" by 8". Football, Baseball, Basketball, Track, Musical Organizations, Contributions, Organizations, Faculty and all other cuts should be 4" x 6". Cartoons are especially desirable. All drawings must be done on heavy paper with india ink. It is thought advisable to make the actual cut 1-4" smaller than the measurements assigned in order to make allowance for the printing. A box to receive contributions will be placed near the Kaleidoscope office and until then they may be given to Frances Wiley '21 or to any member of the Board.

Dante Study Club Organized

The first meeting of Prof. Wright's Dante class for advanced English students was held Tuesday evening in the Music Room. The study is being pursued with three ends in view: a knowledge of the "Divine Comedy" such as can be obtained through the reading of a translation, an acquaintance with the life and personality of the great poet, and an introduction to the pronunciation of the Italian language.

Sport Wrinkles

By Burgins

Dartmouth, Colgate and Harvard, among the bigger eastern institutions, now alone occupy the pinnacle of the undefeated. Each of the three, however, has been held to a tie. Colgate seems to have a better team than either of the others and should the Maroon come through this week's tussle with flying colors, it will take a lot of intricate and delicate figuring to displace them from the top rung of the ladder.

"Bill" Brackett's injury last week is a hard blow to the Blue team. The big linesman has been playing a grand bang-up game on the line since his return to the moleskin's and his absence from the line-up will be keenly felt.

Norwich defeated Vermont by a score of 13 to 0. The Green eleven was completely at bay when Norwich started an aerial attack but went down to defeat fighting hard. The outcome of this game would seem to show that Midd has a big edge over our Burlington rivals but comparative scores are a most unstable and fickle basis upon which to dope contests. Though Midd has the better eleven, the Green hosed warriors can be counted upon to give the Blue and White a stiff argument every minute of the game.

Dartmouth and Penn staged the most sensational battle of offensive strength ever seen at the Polo Grounds Saturday, the Hanoverians finally emerging victorious by a score of 20-19. Dame Fortune seems to be smiling on Dartmouth this year but we must not overlook the fact that the Green team has pulled three games right out of the fire and has converted two of them into victories. Such come-back prowess merits a lot of consideration and praise.

The fur certainly will fly down at the Syracuse stadium this week when the Orange tackles it rival from Hamilton. The dope on that game has them all guessing since both aggregations are well-schooled and powerful elevens and a psychological factor will probably determine the winner. Larry Bankhart has developed a wonderful team but Colgate has been going through some of the most strenuous contests of the year and much will depend upon the relative physical conditions of the teams.

Midd's open game is improving by leaps and bounds. At Williamstown forward passes figured prominently in Midd's opening march down the field. An eleven with a workable overhead game is a dangerous opponent at all times and Midd's comparatively light backfield makes the perfection of the forward passing game a most valuable asset.

Vermont is not scheduled to play this week and quite a number of their men are expected to take in the Midd-Clarkson Tech game here Saturday.

DARBY ELECTED TRACK CAPTAIN

Ronald J. Darby '21 of Whitefield, N. H., was elected captain of the 'Varsity track team at a meeting of the letter men in track last Monday. "Darb" entered Midd originally with the class of 1919 but left college after his sophomore year. For awhile he taught school at Fulton, N. Y., then enlisted in the service, being commissioned second lieutenant artillery, at Camp Taylor.

The new leader made his letter in track during his freshman year running in the sprints and quarter-mile. During his sophomore year he represented Midd in the quarter at the New England intercollegiates where he ran a very creditable race.

With a number of veterans as a nucleus for the squad and with such an experienced man as Darby at the helm, prospects point to a rosy track season for the Blue and White.

SPECIAL TRAIN FOR BURLINGTON

The meeting of the Undergraduate Association at the "gym", Nov. 4, was well attended, and a good volume of business was transacted.

There was some discussion upon the proposition of the girls taking part in the singing and cheering. It was voted to give them a fair chance to demonstrate their ability in this line in conjunction with the men.

Haugh was elected to make arrangements for a special train to Burlington for the U. V. M. game, and to take charge of the train. Davis was elected to determine cost of taking the band to the U. V. M. game, and to arrange for a tag-day to defray expenses of this project.

It was voted that the Student Council petition the faculty to allow men ineligible because of studies to play at the U. V. M. game.

A motion was made and carried that the Student Council circulate a paper to be signed by all men interested, requesting the Administration to procure Simeon Murch as Midd coach again.

The Student Council was empowered to appoint a committee to investigate the matter of a song book and report at the next meeting of the Undergraduate Association.

Motion was made and carried that the college purchase a flag and that the freshman class be entrusted with its care.

The meeting adjourned about 9:30.

ORCHESTRA ENGAGED FOR SOPHOMORE HOP

Sargent's Six-Piece Orchestra of St. Johnsbury, popular jazz artists, have been engaged for the Sophomore Hop to be held Thanksgiving Eve, Nov. 26, in McCullough gymnasium. Many other details for the big social function have been completed and promise to make it one of the best in years. The limit of 80 tickets fixed by the Hop Committee was disposed of early last week and a number of late applicants have been turned down.

The Hop Committee is composed of the following members: Baldwin, Chairman, Crew, Fitzpatrick, Hall, Nilsen, Whitney, Doris Ashworth, Dorothy Mackay, Ruth McArthur, Edith Sibley and Ella Wright.

Women's Athletic Meeting

At a meeting of the Athletic Association held in Pearsons Hall Friday evening, several amendments to the constitution were read and accepted. They provided for a division of sports into major and minor groups; the majors to consist of hockey, basketball, baseball, and indoor gymnasium work; and the minors to include volley ball, tramping, track, and tennis. The points necessary for obtaining a sweater were raised from forty to fifty, and track practice was added to the list of sports.

Emily Hobbs was chosen freshman representative to the Athletic Council. The heads of the various sports were elected as follows: basketball, Emma Schaefer; baseball, Margaret Dickenson; volley ball, Florence Millard, and tramping, Marion Crathern.

The question of cheering at the 'Varsity contests was brought up and after a somewhat spirited discussion it was voted that effort should be concentrated on singing, which is much better adapted to women's voices than cheering.

Two Midd Men Honored

Two Middlebury alumni were successful in contests for judicial positions in the elections last Tuesday. Richard H. Smith, '78, was elected Judge of the City Court in New York City against strong Tammany Hall opposition, and Thomas H. Noonan, '91, was elected County Judge in Buffalo, N. Y., by a vote of 58, 312 to his opponent's 44,375. The success of these loyal and distinguished alumni of Middlebury will be very gratifying to all alumni and friends of the college.

FRESHMEN TRIUMPH AGAIN OVER SOPHS

Underclassmen Defeat Opponents By 14--0 Score

Both Teams Resort to Open Playing In Spite of Wet Field

Notwithstanding a persistent drizzle falling Tuesday morning on Porter Field the freshman and sophomore elevens took advantage of the suspension of classes to renew their struggle for football supremacy commenced nearly four weeks ago. After more than an hour's wallowing in the mud the teams retired with the freshmen bearing all the wreaths of victory entitled by emerging on the big end of a 14-0 score.

After a lapse of nearly a month since their last encounter the freshmen showed a complete reversal of form and had things their way in practically the entire game. Runyon who played on the line in the first game was shifted to the fullback position with good results. Time and again the heavy freshman tore his way through the none too solid sophomore line for long gains. Capt. Quackenbush who was missed in the line-up of the '23 aggregation four weeks ago was back to his position at quarter. The other addition to the incoming class team was Crewdson, a transfer from Cornell, who played a good game at right end.

Both teams resorted to much open playing in spite of the condition of the field and it was due to their better ability to handle passes that gave the freshmen their victory.

In the last of the second period with the ball on '22's 15-yard line Lacey nabbed a pretty pass from Quackenbush and made the first score. Quackenbush kicked the goal.

Ashley furnished the only thrills of the game in the last few minutes of play when he intercepted a pass from Geddes on his own 45-yard line and ran the length of the field for the second touchdown. Quackenbush kicked the goal. The lineup:

Freshmen (14)	Sophomores (0)
Quackenbush, qb	qb, Geddes
Runyon, fb	fb, Kelly
Jakway, lhb	lhb, MacDonnell
Ashley, rhb	rhb, Robinson
Kelley, le	le, Hulihan
Rudnick, lt	lt, Coates
Carroll, lg	lg, Ratti
Lacey, c	c, P. Ross
Adams, rg	rg, Norton
Farnham, rt	rt, Jenkins
Crewdson, re	re, Leach

Touchdowns: Lacey, Ashley. Goals from touchdown: Quackenbush (2). Substitutions: (freshmen) Shelvey for Lacey, (sophomores) Hall for Leach, Lane for Hulihan, Hay for Jenkins, Jenkins for Coates, Crew for Lane.

Time: four 8-minute periods. Referee: Goode; umpire, Dake; Head Linesman, Woodward; Timer, Woodward.

The Chapel Service

Dr. Frank W. Padelford, Secretary of the Educational Commission of the Northern Baptist Convention, spoke at the vesper service last Sunday. Dr. Padelford preached on the subject of influence, using as his text, the fifth verse of the second chapter of the epistle to the Philippians, "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus." He made emphatic the point that the outcome of all history is the result of two forces, the enthronement of the master mind and the responsive people. He urged upon his audience the truth that one can only impress himself upon history by becoming responsive to and receptive of the mind of Christ and influencing the world through him.

ARMISTICE DAY CELEBRATED HERE

Students Excused from Classes Yesterday

President Thomas Speaks at Exercises In Town Hall

Setting an example for other public institutions in the state of Vermont, Middlebury College celebrated Tuesday the first anniversary of the signing of the Entente-Allied Armistice on November 11, 1918, by an entire suspension of college work. Though the college as an institution took no active part in the festivities of the day, large numbers of the students and faculty cooperated with the citizens of Middlebury in staging one of the most elaborate receptions for home-coming service men that has yet taken place in this state. On the Hill, during the afternoon the women of the college entertained about 75 of the men's college at an Armistice Tea dance in Pearsons social hall while on Porter Field two football games were played during the day between the sophomore and freshman class teams in the morning and Middlebury High School and Vergennes High School in the afternoon.

At 11 o'clock the bells in all of the churches in town commenced a half-hour's ringing, singularly reminiscent of the hour one year ago which marked the cessation of fighting, and concluded with the playing of the "Doxology" on the Mead Memorial chimes.

ex-'68, Adjt. Gen. H. T. Johnson, Major

At 3 o'clock Governor P. W. Clement Harvey E. Goodell '15 and Capt. H. P. Sheldon reviewed nearly 100 Middlebury service men, veterans of three wars, headed by the Middlebury College Band. The line of march led from the Federation building on Main St., to the Town Hall, filled to everflowing, where addresses were made by Gov. Clement, Pres. John M. Thomas, Commander of the Vermont Branch of the American Legion, who also was the principal speaker earlier in the afternoon at a large gathering in Rutland, Adjt. Gen. Johnson, Major Goodell and Capt. Sheldon. Middlebury's excellent record in the Great War as well as that of the state of Vermont were emphasized in the addresses of each of the speakers. Gov. Clement gave figures showing the greatly increased responsibilities which were thrust on the executive department during the recent conflict and indicated his aggressive policy towards the demoralizing doctrines upheld and widely circulated by the Bolsheviki. He expressed his confidence of an early return to pre-war prosperity in the state of Vermont.

As an indication of the high esteem in which he is held by citizens and soldiers alike, President Thomas, the last speaker of the afternoon, was greeted by three rousing cheers as he rose following his introduction by Chairman John E. Weeks. In his address he gave a fine definition of Armistice Day spirit and announced that it would be celebrated every year. He commented at length on the excellent work done during the war by Capt. Sheldon and also paid a glowing tribute to the sacrifices made by Vermonters and especially those from this section. The singing of patriotic songs by the assemblage concluded the afternoon's program.

At 7 o'clock veterans of the Civil War, of the Spanish-American and of the Great War were given a welcome banquet at the Addison House. Later in the evening a dance under the auspices of the Middlebury Post of the American Legion was held in the Town Hall.

Rhodes Scholarship Goes to U. V. M. Graduate

Hope that a Middlebury man might be given the Rhodes scholarship for the State of Vermont this year has been disappointed and it is announced that the successful candidate is Boardman Marsh Bosworth of the class of '19 at U. V. M. Mr. Bosworth was a member of the naval unit of the S. A. T. C. and the Phi Beta Kappa fraternity. He is a resident of New York City.

Owing to war conditions this is the first time in two years that Rhodes scholarships have been awarded, and as a consequence an unusually large number of men, sixty-four, will receive appointments.

Next Sunday the Social Problems Club will discuss the English coal strikes in their relation to the American situation. The S. N. C. will begin the study of the prophet Isaiah.

Y. W. C. A. Meets

Mildred Hubbard '20 led the weekly meeting of the Y. W. C. A., in Pearsons social hall, last Friday evening, taking as her subject "World Fellowship." After presenting the problem of the foreign students of the world and Christianity, she brought up the subject of Middlebury's quota in the annual world-fellowship drive carried on by the Y. W. C. A. Our apportionment is $200, and it is expected that the sum will be sent to the mission in Ceylon where Ruth Holland '19 is stationed.

Faculty Club to Send Delegate

A regular meeting of the Faculty Club was held on Monday evening, November 3, in the Music Studio. After the business of the meeting had been transacted, a general discussion followed, the topic being, "How can the most helpful relation between Faculty and Students be secured in Middlebury College?"

The Club voted to send a representative to the Student Volunteer convention to be held in Des Moines, Iowa, this winter.

the first moments of the game. Parker captured the ball on the kick-off and ran it back to his 45-yard line. On the next three plays, by successive forward passes to Capt. Ross and Goode the ball was moved up to Williams' 1-yard line. On the next play Parker carried it over but Referee Peterson ruled out the score on the grounds that Middlebury had been off-side and penalized them five yards. With one more opportunity to score Drost carried the ball to within a fraction of an inch of the line and, according to a number who saw the play, over the line but the score was not allowed.

Williams scored three touchdowns and kicked one goal in the last three periods. Early in the second period the ball was carried from near the center of the field to Middlebury's ten-yard line where Boynton cleared right end for a touchdown. Boynton missed the goal.

Williams' next score came in the third period. A penalty gave her possession of the ball on Middlebury's 25-yard line from where it was steadily advanced until Boynton carried it over the line. Boynton again failed in his attempt to kick the goal. Williams scored her third and final touchdown in the last fifteen seconds of play on a forward pass from Boynton to Joslyn. Boynton kicked the goal. The line up:

CAMPUS CHATTER

Preston '22 spent the week-end with friends in Rutland.

Gray '23 and Parry '23 spent last week end at their homes in Shushan, and Granville, N. Y., respectively.

It is reported, from the hospital in Burlington where he was sent for treatment, that "Bill" Brackett '20, husky guard of the 'Varsity and leader of the Jazz Band, did not break his knee-cap during a football scrimmage a week ago as was feared. Instead the ligaments have been torn from the inside of his knee. The injury is to be incased in a plaster cast and it is expected that Brackett may be about the campus by the time this issue appears. However, it will probably be some time before he can navigate without the aid of crutches.

Home Economics Club Meets

The first meeting of the Home Economics Club was held at the Alpha Chi House, Tuesday evening, November 4. There was a good attendance, and everyone spent a very enjoyable evening. Most of the time was taken up with a discussion of plans for the work of the club, and it was decided to sell sandwiches once a week at the bookstore after chapel, the day to be announced beforehand. The money from these sales will be used to help some needy families in town. Attractive programs have been planned for the coming meetings. The next one will be held Tuesday evening, November 18, in the Pi Phi rooms.

PRESIDENTS MEET HERE THIS WEEK

to laboratory work in the teaching of science?"

"Is it possible by the aid of psychological tests, or otherwise, to guide students in the selection of studies and in the choice of a career?"

"Has the time not come when the duties now usually assigned to the President's Office shall be divided so that there shall be a Business Manager or Director to whom is given all business matters and the President or Educational Director to whom shall be assigned all questions of educational administration?"

"The possibility of guidance in the choice of student electives."

"The value of the proposed work of the American Council on Education."

"How long should Instructors and Assistant Professors serve before securing promotion in rank, and should such promotion be regarded as a matter of right after a definite period of service?"

"The enforcement of the physical training requirement."

"Changes in academic aims and in curriculum suggested by the test of the war."

"The advisability of permitting the substitution in special cases of some other modern language in place of either French or German to meet the usual language requirement."

The meetings of the Association will be held in the social rooms of Hepburn Hall and will be strictly private. Professor Davis, in behalf of the faculty members of the Green Mountain Club, has invited the delegates to accompany the members of the Club on a week-end "hike" on the Long Trail and it is expected that a party will be formed for the trip.

ALUMNI NOTES

'04. Louis C. Squier of Council Bluffs, Iowa, and a member of the Iowa Interstate Commerce Commission was a visitor at the Chi Psi Lodge last week. Wednesday morning at the chapel service Mr. Squier spoke to the students for a few minutes. He pointed out the value of studies to college men and women as tests. If these tests are passed, be held, it is pretty safe to say that difficulties in after life will be overcome with equal ease.

'10. Miss Alice Raymond is now connected with the School of Hygiene and Public Health, John Hopkins University. She is doing field work in a tuberculosis survey from the geneological standpoint, spending part of the time in the field and part in the laboratory of Dr. Pearl.

'13. Moses G. Hubbard, Jr., and Bradley Fuller have entered into partnership for the practice of law at Utica, N. Y.

'18. Forrest G. Myrick and Stanley V. Wright who are engaged in governmental survey work in Vermont, spent the week-end in Middlebury leaving for the northern section of the state Monday.

Professor de Visme lectured before the Plymouth County Teachers Convention held at Brockton, Mass., November 1, on the subject of "Recent Advances in the Methods of Modern Language Teaching."

Freshman Class Meeting

At the Freshman class meeting held Tuesday, November 4, Shepardson was elected as the class representative to the Student Council and Runyon was chosen Basket Ball Manager. It was also decided that the girls should wear class toques as well as the men.
